DIRECTORY OF EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION CENTERS
in Metropolitan Omaha

Compiled by

PREFACE

Behold the child! He is ever a source of wonderment to us. Look into the newborn's eyes that peer into an unknown and sometimes indifferent world. Hold him in your arms, feel his warmth and instinctive trust and dependence upon those around him. As we see the helpless child struggle and squirm, how determined are his parents to see that he is provided food, clothing, and shelter! Less often are the parents and their peers in the community sufficiently concerned about the sustenance of mind. Are we as parents as keenly aware of his educational needs as we might be?

Do we as communities recognize the importance of education--early educational experiences? The number of day care and early childhood educational experiences in the metropolitan area would suggest that as a community, we have miles to go and promises to keep if we are to enlarge upon and foster the potential of each child. Our leadership for the next generation will be the product of today's cradle. Early childhood experiences can contribute immeasurably to the cognitive growth of young children. This city needs to be aware of what experiences are now available and to see how it can foster the development of quality agencies that are dedicated to making early childhood education the promise of tomorrow.

The directory grows out of participation in a state advisory committee on early childhood education that was called together by Dr. Velma Schmidt (then a consultant in the State Education Department of Nebraska) during the Spring and Summer of 1970.

The directory is the result of Mrs. Mildred Hill's dedication to a task and the recognition of a community need. Despite the care with which Mrs. Hill has labored, the directory represents accurate information only insofar as we are able to determine. There are no doubt some omissions, errors or oversights that we could not catch. While we regret these errors, we cannot be responsible for them and can only say that we are sorry. We hope that you will understand.

Special thanks to Miss Mary Alice Big Fire, Mrs. Greta Owen, and Mrs. Dorothy Nimrod for typing and editing pages with such care. To Dr. John Nye of the Center for Urban Affairs we express thanks for continued interest and for help in the distribution of the directories. To Mrs. Shirley Deramus we express thanks for duplication and assembling. The cover design is the work of Mr. Tom Norwood, Assistant to the Dean of the College of Education at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, to whom we express sincere thanks.

It would be our hope that the directory is a useful document to community leaders, educators, and to social agencies. A word about the use of the directory might be in order. Mrs. Hill has arranged the directory into three sections--alphabetical, by areas of the city, and by age group listings. We trust that you will see in the listings a way of increasing communication between early childhood agencies, parents, training institutions, and the community at large.

May each of us use this effort as a means to help others know of the importance of providing to young children, a quality educational experience that will help them to achieve the promises of tomorrow.
